Dear USC Alumni and Friends:

One of the world's most remote destinations at the foot of the Himalayas, Bhutan beckons with its sublime vistas, lush green valleys and rich cultural heritage. Spend 10 days exploring the rugged and beautiful countryside, hiking to shrines and monasteries, and crossing swaying bridges dotted with colorful prayer flags.

But Bhutan is more than gorgeous vistas; it is a land of welcoming people. Encounter artisans, craftspeople, students, monks and nuns. Learn about rural life and art at the fascinating Folk Heritage and National Textile Museums. Delight in a home-cooked farmhouse lunch with a Bhutanese family.

Contemplate the country's Gross National Happiness, a reflection of the Bhutanese sense of balance and well-being. At a Buddhist shrine dedicated to world peace, see worshipers perambulating — circling the monument while praying or meditating. At the Arts and Crafts School, observe students studying the 13 traditional arts and learn the captivating history of these practices.

Throughout, stay in first-class and deluxe hotels, savor included meals and enjoy this one-of-a-kind, adventurous program. We anticipate much excitement and demand for this very special tour. More details about this voyage and our other programs can be found at TrojanTravel.usc.edu

Gross National Happiness

In the 1970s, Bhutan's king proclaimed, "Gross National Happiness is more important than Gross Domestic Product." This philosophy guides the Bhutanese government, and led policymakers to create an index to measure the happiness level of its citizens. The index considers nine equally weighted categories: living standards; psychological well-being; health; time use; education; cultural diversity & resilience; good governance; community vitality; ecological diversity & resilience.

The idea that a country might focus on the harmony and joy of its citizens captured the world's imagination. Discover Bhutan's serene environment and calm, contemplative lifestyle for yourself.
